In the Torah reading for today, Noah leaves the teva (ark) to establish a fresh beginning for humanity. According to Rashi, Noah only leaves upon God’s direct command. He builds an altar, and God promises never to bring another global deluge. God then establishes the universal Noahide laws, prohibiting bloodshed and establishing justice. The rainbow is set as a covenantal sign of peace. This is followed by the events of Noah’s vineyard and a list of his descendants which make up the seventy root nations.
